

Accessing the JCDL 2021 Conference Platform (RDMobile)

JCDL 2021 will be held online from September 27-30, 2021. The conference will be using the RDMobile Platform for scheduling and coordinating remote access by participants to the synchronous presentations. All papers will be presented in two different sessions to accommodate participants in diverse time zones. If a session is scheduled for a time that doesn't work for you, please look for the paper in another session.

To access the RDMobile site, go to <https://events.rdmobile.com/Events/Enter/14308> and enter the email address with which you registered for JCDL. You will be e-mailed a "magic link" that will associate your device with your account and allow you to access the RDMobile site -- no password needed. Be sure to check your Spam folder for the magic link e-mail after requesting it.

You may explore the scheduling site in advance of the conference using the left navigation frame and view the upcoming presentations by track (e.g., keynotes, papers). Alternatively, you may select the "Schedule" navigation link to view all presentations ordered by time at which they will occur. Links to dedicated Zoom rooms will be embedded in the information about each session. You will need to join the Zoom room through the conference platform to attend each conference event.